

IAIN MCLENNON

Iain McLennon came into the world singing the tenor to Tumbling Tumbleweeds, having already gone through the rest of the Sons of The Pioneers' repertoire before first seeing the sun. Coming from a decidedly non-musical family, it was immediately decided that an experiment should be conducted, and so it was that Iain's musical traits were nurtured at every opportunity. Early results were mixed, at best.

Presented with opportunities for fame and fortune more times than the law should allow, Iain nonetheless chose virtual obscurity until a force larger than himself (Craigslist) aligned him with various other members of The ByrdBrains, the band he was forced to create from the flaming ruins of ODYSSEY, the band he was forced to create from... well, never mind.

Since the beginning of all of this creation stuff, Iain has contributed everything he had to offer in the way of guitar, keyboards, harp and vocals, and continues to do so to this very day.

